Major race meet proposal gets mixed local response

Any proposal to shift the spring race meet from Golden Gate Fields to the Fairgrounds at Pleasanton is going to meet with mixed reviews from Pleasanton's city council.

A poll of the available council members indicates that "if we have the right of prior review," then the city council would be inclined to vote down any proposal for 60 or 70 days of horse racing here this spring.

But city leaders also agree that "the Fair Board and the State will decide this thing, regardless of our feelings," as Councilperson Joyce LeClaire put it.

LeClaire was firmest in her belief that bringing a major race meet to Pleasanton, even for a one-time visit, would have "absolutely no benefit for the community." She reasons that "the city has never made anything from the County Fair, so I can't see where we'd do any better with a major meet."

LeClaire's vote would be be "absolutely no" in any case. "Having that County Fair for two weeks is one thing. But having those crowds for four months of the year is something else. We don't need it."

Councilman Bob Philcox appears to share those same sentiments, and even suggests that "the council initiate action" in conveying community sentiment to the governor before there is any state-level decision on that proposal.

(The Times revealed on Thursday that unions deadlocked in negotiations with race officials at Albany were prepared to ask Governor Brown to reassign the balance of that 92-day meet to the track at Pleasanton. A Sunday story in The Times confirmed that union action. The proposal is now before the governor and the State Racing Commission for consideration.)

Traffic congestion and the cost of providing city services to crowds that would range from 15,000 to 30,000 every day of that spring meet is the major concern of the city council.

"If we were a charter city we could impose an admission tax (as Albany does) and reap some benefit from such a meet," Councilman Roger McLain explained. He indicated that some assurance of city revenue wobld be a major item in any local review of that plan. "The idea of a lot of jobs for students and other area residents is attractive," McLain added.

Vice Mayor Wm. Herlihy conditioned his response to "having all the facts before us, including revenue to offset costs." He said "traffic congestion" would be a major city concern.

(Mayor Ed Kinney was not available prior to press time Monday for his comments.)

In proposing that the remainder of the Golden Gate Fields spring race meet be moved to Pleasanton, the head of the Alameda County Central Labor Council is asking Governor Brown to "expedite approval of the Pleasanton race meeting" as the answer to that deadlock in labor negotiations at Albany.

The state stands to lose several millions of dollars in tax revenue if the Golden Gate spring meet is wiped out, and the horsemen face serious financial problems if they cannot race their mounts for the next three months.

Pleasanton's track is considered adequate to handle the horses and the betting crowds for such a meet, although the grandstand with 6000 seats is just half the seating capacity of the Albany track. Pleasanton has recorded "million dollar days" at peak periods of its two-weeks race meet, but Golden Gate Fields experiences that activity almost every day.—

"It would be like July 4 every day from now through the middle of June," commented Joyce LeClaire.

The Alameda County Fair takes over the fairgrounds on June 27 for a 15-day exposition that includes 12 days of horse races.

Bulletin

PLEASANTON — Late Monday Mayor Ed Kinney sent a telegram to Gov. Brown "signed by the entire council." The message urges Gov. Brown to delay any consideration of transferring Golden Gate Fields race dates to Pleasanton "until proper review by the Pleasanton City Council."

Board will decide Santos Road fate

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — The decade old squabble over Santos Ranch Road will reach its peak today when the board of supervisors opens public hearings on the fate of the twisting, 20 degree incline up the east slope of Pleasanton Ridge.

The board is at odds over whether to abandon the road or put up a permanent, locked gate.

Abandonment would eliminate the county's legal responsibility, according to county counsel Richard Moore. But it would not ensure the safety of citizens using either it or the intersecting Foothill Road argued board chairman Fred Cooper.

A permanent, locked gate, with keys given only to those with property adjoining the road, would create a private road at county expense, he charged.

The tortuous, twisting road, once used as a training run by former world heavyweight champion George Foreman, has been the scene of several serious auto accidents.

The panoramic view from atop the ridge is enticing, but brake linings have given out as cars wormed their way down the steep incline.

The risk is not limited to those who use the road. In a recent accident, an out of control auto plowed into another car as it drove along Foothill Road.

Cooper is afraid that property owners on the ridge will not erect a locked gate once the county has abandoned the road.

Fellow supervisor John Murphy of Pleasanton has argued that the board is at "cross purposes" since putting up the gate creates a private road that effectively abandons the road.

Both Moore and public works director Herb Crowle have recommended the locked gate. All five supervisors have agreed something will be done.

Each accident results in a law suit, Moore and Crowle told the board last month when the supervisors decided to hold a public hearing.

Herlihy sees local postal service decline

PLEASANTON — That long - awaited move by the postal service into new quarters on Black Avenue offers no assurance of improved mail handling for the local populace, in the opinion of Vice Mayor William Herlihy.

In an exchange of letters with Postmaster Mark Foster on the subject of mail delivery in the Pleasanton area, Herlihy commends Foster for "your efforts to improve service at the counter" and says such changes are "appreciated by the community."

But the "serious manpower problems" which have hampered the local postal system in the past will apparently still be a major handicap after the move into those spacious new facilities, sometime this summer, Herlihy concludes.

"This certainly means a lower level of service to our community," the vice mayor notes in his response to Foster. "This fact disturbs me, and I am sure our residents will be very vocal about standing in line" for service in the new post office.

"It seems to me that providing good, fast service would be the best possible public relations" for the postal system, Herlihy concludes. He urges Foster to press for such improvement "prior to moving into your new quarters."

Students will poll voters on ballot

PLEASANTON — The traditional and extremely accurate Amador High School student political poll won't be ready for the city council race this year.

That was the word from Amador civics teacher Paul Zarcone, who is picking up where its originator, Jim Eaton, left off when he transferred to the Foothill High School faculty. (Eaton doesn't have a civics class at Foothill and so can't initiate the poll again).

Zarcone and social studies department chairman Don Anger plan to send their civics students into the community late this month and again in May to conduct two samplings of the June primary election ballot.

There is an outside chance that Zarcone and his students can get the poll done in time to make a report on the city council election March 2, but it is highly unlikely, said Zarcone.

The students have not framed all their questions yet and won't go out until next Tuesday, but it looks like they will concentrate on the June election, said Zarcone.

That's unfortunate for people wondering about the city council race's outcome because all past student polls in Eaton's classes predicted the local winners, usually within a percentage point or two of the actual victory margins.

Eaton originated the poll as an interesting activity which would involve his students more closely in the democratic process. They reported learning many things about people's attitudes in their door-to-door journeys after school. Many were surprised at how uninformed voters seemed to be about issues and candidates.

The nuclear initiative, Proposition 15, probably will be one of the poll questions this year, said Zarcone. He thinks the results in the Democratic Presidential primary will be inconclusive in the first poll, but perhaps by the May polling things in that race will firm up.

County, state filing underway today

Today marks the beginning of the nomination period for this year's major election races.

Nomination papers may be taken out Feb. 17 through March 12 at the Alameda County Registrar's office, 1225 Fallon St., Oakland.

Nomination papers will be issued only to the candidate or to the candidate's agent upon presentation of written authorization, the registrar noted.

Offices up for election this year include County Board of Supervisor, District One. Candidates already indicating their intention to run for the post include incumbent John D. Murphy of Pleasanton, Irene Vincent of Fremont, and Valerie Raymond of Livermore.

A November run-off will be required unless one of the candidates captured a majority of the votes cast.

Voters also will choose a State Legislator for Assembly District 15. Incumbent Democrat Floyd Mori filed declaration of intention papers last week. He has no Democratic challengers.

Hayward Republicans Robert Wirt and David Funsch filed declaraction of intention papers. The two will vie for the Republican nomination in the June 8 primary.

Congressional representative Pete Stark (D-Oakland) is expected to run for reelection in District 9.

James Mills, a Republican, and Albert Sargis, a Peace and Freedom Party candidate, have indicated they will challenge Stark for his seat in the U.S. Congress.

Valley residents also must choose three directors of the Zone 7 Board of Directors, Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

None of the three board incumbents (David Harris, chairman; Robert Becker, vice chairman; and Harlan Zodtner) have decided whether to run for reelection.

Retiring Livermore City Councilman Donald Miller has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the zone post.

Miller admitted he is "thinking it over," but has not reached a final decision.

The zone election will be held Primary Day, June 8.

Candidates for all offices must file nomination papers by March 12. Except for State Assembly candidates whose fee is paid when declaration of intention papers are filed, all candidates must pay the filing fee when nomination papers are returned.

No residential starts in city for January

PLEASANTON — No residential building permits were issued in Pleasanton last month. The city has used up its allowable number from the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board and is expected to ask for more permits this spring.

The onlx new construction permit issued was for an addition to Utility Vault Co., valued at $70,000. There were 27 other permits for small additions, alterations or repairs with a total assessed valuation of $103,980. Four permits for signs valued at $850, nine permits for swimming pools valued at $85,000, and 13 other permits valued at $34,200 also were issued.

'10 minutes, gentlemen'

Frank DiFillipo points out 10-minute limit Pleasanton City Council candidates will have when they make presentations before Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Tuesday at Pleasanton Hotel. Gracedaryl Dickinson, holding clock, has been working with Ted Mann to lineup outstanding chamber programs this year. DiFillipo will introduce council candidates Gene Finch, Bill Herlihy and Ken Mercer Tuesday. Program starts at 12 noon. On following Tuesday, candidates Frank Brandes, Robert Attebery and Jim Jordan will speak at chamber meeting.

Mercer speaks out on council candidacy

(Editor's note: this is the third in a series of profiles on the Pleasanton City Council candidates. The election will be held March 2.)

PLEASANTON — Creation of the proposed Human Services Department may be a good idea, but it needs more study, according to city council candidate Ken Mercer.

Mercer had some human services experience with the ACTEB staff on a volunteer basis. ACTEB is the successor to the War on Poverty in regard to work, especially job training and job creation. His view is that the state and federal government already are bringing millions of dollars to bear on social problems so the city should do a careful study to identify local needs and what sort of local staff commitment would be required.

"Granted, the health care facilities in the valley are in dire need, but you just can't run over to the health care center and tell them we're ready to help them. You have to know what they need so that we can help them," said Mercer.

Commenting on redevelopment, Mercer said that the city's plan "was grandiose. CARD (Citizens Against Redevelopment) served a worthwhile function by bringing redevelopment to the entire community's attention. A leader came from the group, Bernie Gerton, who suggested that the Chamber of Commerce review the city's plan. From that came the Chamber's plan."

The Chamber plan was a good one, but it didn't get "a good airing," said Mercer.

Mercer thinks that the redevelopment issue will be a dead one for a long time. Meanwhile, problems remain in the downtown core.

"The city has to take a harsh look at what it wants downtown to be," said Mercer. "Do they want Main Street to be a passage for cars and a pedestrian mall? Then we need to look at other forms of transportation, for example, bicycle paths to the downtown.

"The business community needs to come up with solutions. The businessman can't expect the city to pay for all the improvements downtown. The businessman has his own investment downtown," said Mercer.

"We are lacking commercial development on the other side of Interstate 680. Nearly 99 percent of the residents there shop in Dublin. The Las Positas overpass, which I favor very much, would do a lot to help our retail tax dollars. Then residents could stay on this side of 580 to shop, whether it is in downtown or some other shopping center," said Mercer.

The Las Positas overpass is number two on Mercer's priority list, right behind resolution of the city's sewer problems. Mercer would prefer to consolidate all Pleasanton sewage treatment into the VCSD plant, but that may present thorny problems in relations with VCSD.

If Pleasanton were to build its own sewer plant (assuming state and federal authorities consented), there would be the advantage of total local control instead of having to work through the VCSD board, said Mercer.

If the local share of building the city's own plant were approximately $500,000 to $1 million, Mercer would favor going for a bond issue to finance it.

Mercer agrees with the 76,000 ultimate holding capacity of the city's general plan and the average annual two percent growth rate.

The candidate would like to find a way to create lower cost housing. He thinks the city could do its part by reducing or waiving fees if the final result truly is low or moderate income housing.

"If we could knock $2,000 or $3,000 off the cost of a home, it behooves us to do it," said Mercer. "It's a crying shame that kids can grow up here and can't afford to come back and buy a home here."

Mercer would put an estimated $1.8 million bond issue on park improvements on the ballot for the voters to decide it. The cost of an election is 10 cents a voter, well worth the investment for the possible results, he said.

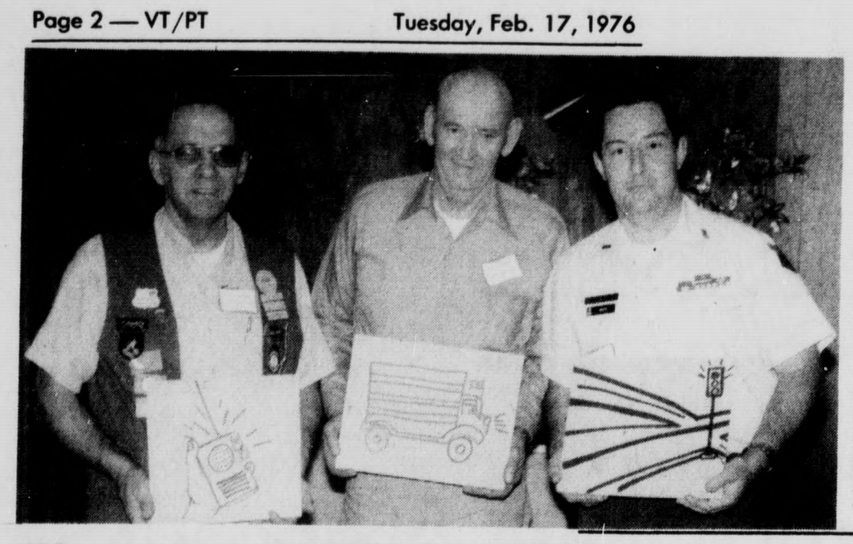

Mercer thinks that the city has not "actively sought out certain industries. I'm not talking about a $30,000 a year industrial recruiter. But other things can be done. Our filing fees and connection fees are high. We should look at that."

Asked about the possibility of annexing Dublin, Mercer said he is skeptical there is much sentiment to do it. If the question arose, he would favor thorough study of the question to determine the benefits or detriments to Pleasanton.

"It may be that we would get a benefit from retail tax dollars and assessed valuation in Dublin. But we also would need a much larger police force. A cost study would have to be done before I would favor it," he said.

Asked about the recent controversy over the permanent establishment of the Department of Public Safety, Mercer said at the time of The Times interview that he still needed to meet with fire and police department officials before taking a stand issue.

Planning THE march

"Safety" was the watchword as planners gathered to map out efforts for the fourth annual, 20 mile March of Dimes Valley Walkathon scheduled for Saturday, Mar. 13. Murphy McAfee (left), representing Voice of the Valley Citizens' Band Radio, Milton Dunham, coordinating transportation and Deputy Civil Air Patrol Commander Rich White of Squadron 156 who will handle traffic control, met with local police, sheriffs and highway patrol representatives to build safety into the march. Last year some 2,000 walkers braved wet weather to raise $25,730 in the drive against birth defects. Organizers are hoping for good weather and 3,000 walkers this year. The walk is being planned by Chris Beratlis of Pleasanton, Bud Tari, Livermore and Capt. Dennis Jeffrey of Dublin. Sponsor sheets may be obtained at valley McDonald's Restaurants, the Pleasanton Chamber of Commerce, radio station KKIQ or by calling 836-2267.

Mary Lee Krueger shows off sterling bud vase which was a token of her honor as recipient of the 'Women Helping Women' award from the Soroptimists. President June Weiss shares the moment of joy.

Soroptimists applaud women dedicated to serving others

Mary Lee Krueger was declared the first recipient of the Livermore Soroptimists' "Women Helping Women" award.

A humble, unassuming woman, she was not even aware of what was being said about her. Her intense eyes sought out the lips of those speaking because she could not hear. Her eyes danced with understanding when her companion "told" her of the award in the sign language of the deaf, and an audible "thank you" emerged from her lips.

According to Soroptimist President June Weiss, who read the award at a recent luncheon honoring Mrs. Krueger, she was chosen from among eleven women whose names were submitted as examples of community women who selflessly serve others.

Mrs. Krueger was selected because of the many hours she has spent throughout her lifetime helping other deaf persons, or women who had deaf children and need instruction on how to communicate with them.

Mary Lee also conducts classes of sign language (for those who can hear) for men, women and children. The Soroptimist award states that women often come to her home to seek help, and that she frequently assists them at home, spending her own time with never a thought of repayment.

She also does a great deal of work with the multi-handicapped. She and her husband have adopted and raised a son who is also deaf.

Ruth M. Miller, parent of a deaf child who has been assisted for many years in coping with this affliction by Mrs. Krueger, submitted her name for the award. The committee of judges who made the final selection were Ruth Bailey, Genevieve Proctor, Mayor Archer Futch and Jim Pearson of Livermore.

Mary Lee Krueger is a graduate of the Iowa State School for the Deaf, and is married to J. R. Krueger, a Lawrence Livermore Laboratory employe.

Other women nominated for the award include Beth Wainwright, Maria Hopkins, Louise Ray, Sally Bystroff, Carol Pitzer, Marilyn Calhoun, Ruth Stewart, Peg McGuire, Mae Tilles and Sylvia Jones.

From rubber trees to rump roasts...

Horticulture students inspect seedlings in campus greenhouse.

Valley's "Ag" students plunge in!

Rubber tree's air - layered graft is inspected by teacher Jim Coelho.

LIVERMORE — Right in downtown Livermore, there's a misty world where rubber trees lie against steamy window panes and sensitive plants fold up their delicate leaves when the sun goes down.

Coleuses flash their extravagant leaves of copper and lime and violet, while jade plants shine under the attentions of a sprinkler.

It's the Livermore High greenhouse, tucked away at the back of the campus, a humid haunt for the agriculture students who swarm over the rows of plants, air-layering this one and transplanting that.

You'd hardly notice the row of buildings behind the bright new student union and the white classrooms on the Maple Street campus.

But there's a whole world of agriculture back there : classrooms that have rainfall and soil maps on the walls and books about livestock on the shelves...an outdoor nursery where young shrubs are thriving...big mesh cages where gorgeous uuail and pheasant strut back and forth.

And, to give students the full cycle of experience in handling livestock, there's even a gleaming new meatcutting building where they transform freshly slaughtered animals into T-bones and bacon.

Livermore's "Ag" program is concentrated at one of the three high schools — the oldest school and the one attended by the hundred or more students who are living on ranches outside the city.

There are 400 students taking at least one Ag course this semester. Some are real-life farm dwellers who raise their own livestock and know how to run the family farm machinery. Others are what one teacher calls "drugstore cowboys: they buy their hats at the Rexall store, git themselves a big belt buckle and some boots and stomp around campus spittin' tobacco."

And plenty are just city kids with a great love for plants and animals, maybe with ambitions to work in a nursery or be a forester some day.

There are four teachers in the department. Jim Coelho heads the department and teaches agricultural science and horticulture — including showing students how to manage the three-ear-old greenhouse and the new fiberglass shelter for nursery plants.

Bob Verboon shows students how to breed, observe and care for the small collection of game birds in the school's "zoo."

Verboon divides his time between wildlife management and meatcutting classes. The latter are not actually part of the Livermore Unified School District, although the new meatcutting building is on the LHS campus. Instead, it was built with money from the Livermore-Amador Valley Regional Occupation Program (ROP) and is used by students from Dublin and Pleasanton as well as Livermore. And Verboon's paycheck comes partly from Livermore Unified School District money and partly from the ROP funds.

Meatcutting teacher John Greci is working with a similar arrangement, heading the new lab part time and also teaching agriculture. The fourth teacher is Ron Furtado, who teaches agriculture and spends afternoons, evenings and weekends helping with Future Farmers of America (FFA) club projects.

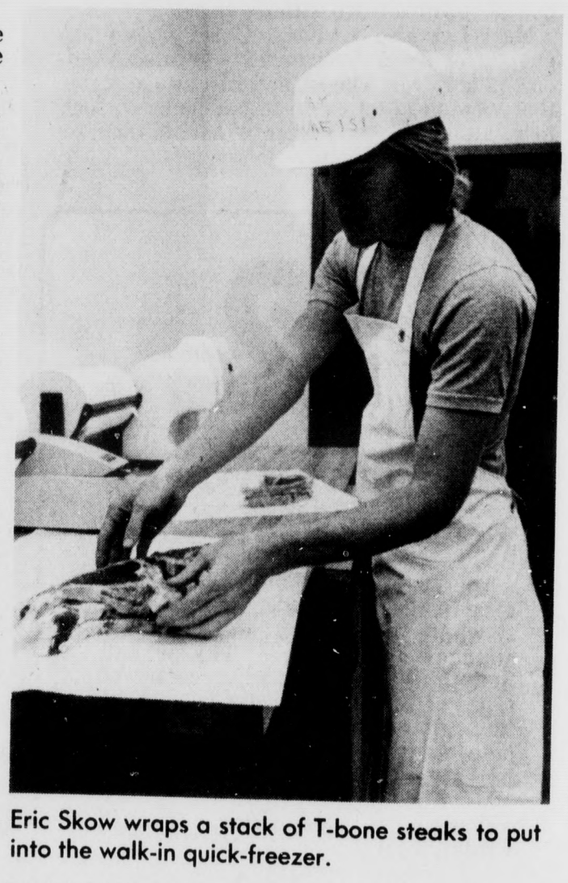

In addition to learning about "ceanothus cyaneus" (lilac) and "euphorbia pulcherrima" (pointsettia), horticulture students can take a tree pruning course operated through the ROP program. Students apparently think nothing of bouncing back and forth between the two programs to get a complete vocational background.

Ag teachers hope that some day the school board will find $16,000 to buy some machinery that will allow that to start an orchard management course out at the old Del Valle Sanitarium on Arroyo Road, which is county property.

There's a walnut orchard falling into decay out at Del Valle. Furtado's vision is to turn it into an outdoor lab where he could teach real-life pruning, harvesting, disease control and fertilization, and at the same time rescue the old orchard.

But that's still in the future. For now, Ag students and teachers are involved in one of the largest programs in the state, complete with prize winning FFA judging teams, top quality student projects and lots of blue ribbons every summer at the County Fair.

Johnny Wonder

Many animals such as frogs, fish, snakes and lizards are often called "cold-blooded," as opposed to "warm-blooded" mammals and birds. This does not mean their blood is always cold.

Unlike the warm-blooded animals, they do not have built-in temperature controls that keep their bodies evenly warmed. Instead, their body heat tends to rise and fall with the temperature of their surroundings. The cold-blooded animal is warm when the world around it is warm. It is cold when its surroundings are cold.

Many cold-blooded animals depend on the sun for their body heat. Most reptiles, for example, bask in the sun to warm their bodies. If they become too hot, they simply move into the shade.

On cold days they become sluggish and sleepy.

Opening lead — Q ♦

By Oswald & James Jacoby

It really requires a lot of discipline to stay out of seven when you have 11 tricks in your own hand and your partner has shown you an ace and a king. But South knew that his partner's ace was in the spade suit and pretty sure that his kind would be there also. As a matter of fact, South had almost settled for the ultra-safe five hearts.

If West had opened a club there would have been no play for six the way the cards lay, but West made his normal lead of a diamond and South was able to bring his slam home by means of giving up one trick to gain two.

He won the diamond lead and promptly led a low trump toward dummy's seven and six. East won a surprise trick with his eight, but now South had an entry to dummy to be able to discard his two low clubs on the ace and king of spades.

Ask the Jacobys

A New Jersey reader asks what we think of the intermediate jump overcall designed to show a good six-card suit and sound opening bid.

We feel that if anyone wants to use this bid he will get some very good results from it. The only trouble is that he doesn't pick up the right hand for it much more often than once in a blue moon.

Poll favors Granada, but Dons lead

Granada High is first in the heart of voters, but second in the EBAL.

The Matadors surged past rival Amador Valley in the latest East Bay poll this morning, but that does nothing to alter the standings with basketball season drawing to a close.

Despite an uproarious 57-54 win over Amador last Friday night, Granada is still one game out in the standings with three to play. The Matadors must sweep their remaining contests and get help from at least one other EBAL team to gain a piece of the championship.

Granada is ranked ninth in the area this morning following a week of "must" victories.

The Matadors opened Wednesday with a 66-56 win over Livermore, knocking the Cowboys out of title contention. They prevented Amador from clinching a title tie Friday with the three-point victory decided in the final five seconds of play.

That loss dropped Amador from 10th to 13th in the polls.

In its final three games Amador must defeat Dublin, San Ramon and Foothill to protect the margin in the standings, and win a third consecutive EBAL crown Only Wednesday's Dublin game is on the road.

Granada, meanwhile, must beat Monte Vista, California and Dublin. The Dublin game is at Livermore, the others, on the road.

Amador had won 10 games in succession before dropping the Granada affair Friday. The Dons face a Dublin team next that was whipped Friday by Livermore.

"If we play as well as we're capable, we can beat Amador," said Dublin coach Don Nelson "But we're going to have to shoot better. We hit only 25 per cent of our shots against Livermore."

College Park remains the East Bay's number one team this week after running its season record to 20-0. Castlemont, which defeated Fremont in an Oakland Athletic League crucial, is still ranked second.

With team followed by first place votes in parentheses, record, points and rank last week.

Carmen paces United win

Carmen Macon scored three times for Pleasanton United last weekend, pacing a 6-0 rout of the Livermore Shining Stars in under-18 girls soccer.

Debbie Oxsen, Jennie Pappas and Jean Borton all scored for Pleasanton.

Cindy Affedt authored the shutout with her fine defense.

The San Ramon Superiors earned a 4-3 decision from the under-16 Pleasanton Patriots. For Pleasanton, Jayne Kuhns, Janet Martin and Jamie Watson scored goals. Chris Brittain and Cherilyn Ogren played fine defense.

The Dublin Shillelaghs fought to a 1-1 tie with the Pleasanton Bulldogs. Denise Hill scored for Pleasanton on Donna Wilkes' assist. Sharon Walker, Shannon Powell and Marcie Amsbaugh played fine defense.

Jennifer Hanhy scored three times for Pleasanton United under-10 in a 4-0 rout of Dublin. Taunya Biletnikoff assisted one score. Mickie Morris also scored. Leanne Payne played fine defense.

Amazon's D proves too much

Playing a strong defensive first half, the Amazons breezed past the Hot Shots, 43-10, in Dublin Women's Basketball last week.

The Amazons allowed just one field goal by Bobby Davis in the entire first two quarters of play In the second half they were nearly as stingy, giving up a pair of field goals each to Kathy Anderson and Mary Weaver.

Pam Allen and Jodi Minshall led the Amazon attack with 12 points each. Minshall scored 10 in the second half. Connie Owen had 10 points for the winners.

In other action, Purcell's Liquor overwhelmed Hexcel, 74-8. Val Owen led the balanced Purcell scoring binge with 22 points. Sandi Perlman had 20, and Gayle McCullough, 16. Cindy Sherman contributed 10 points

In the only other game, the Easy Overs blasted Refectory, 34-16.

Cagaanan gets coaching honor

SAN FRANCISCO — Terry Cagaanan of Chabot College was presented his Coach of the Year award Saturday during the Coach of the Year Clinic sponsored by Kellog's at the Jack Tar Hotel.

The football boss of the Gladiators earned a Golden Gate Conference championship during his one-year interim stint as head coach. Cagaanan replaced Keith Calkins, who stepped down for one season.

Chabot one the GGC title despite losing its first two quarterbacks to injury and playing most of the season with a freshman

The Gladiators lost to Contra Costa College in the Northern California championship game.

Cagaanan was selected as Northern California coach of the year in junior college football. Dick Tucker of Orange Coast College received the honor for Southern California.

"Obviously you have to have great players and an excellent staff to earn an award like this," Cagaanan told a gathering of 1,400 coaches at the clinic Saturday. "It reflects the outstanding program established at Chabot by Dr. Keith Calkins. The whole staff is deserving of this award."

Cagaanan will become number one assistant at Chabot next fall when Calkins resumes his duties as head coach.

Fractometer Yields Secrets Of Tobacco Flavor.

Researchers use smoke analysis to isolate key flavor ingredients of tobacco–low tar MERIT with 'Enriched Flavor'™ achieved.

Not all ingredients of tobacco in cigarette smoke deliver the same amount of taste.

Or tar.

That's what researchers at Philip Morris discovered using an analytical fractometer to "crack" cigarette smoke down into its various parts.

Relying on this very sensitive, very special instrument, over 2000 separate ingredients were isolated and analyzed.

What this analysis revealed was startling:

There are ingredients in cigarette smoke—key flavor-rich ingredients—that deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

Ingredients that, when packed into a tobacco blend, result in a cigarette that delivers extraordinary flavor without the usual corresponding increase in tar.

The discovery is called 'Enriched Flavor.' It comes in the tobacco of a remarkable new cigarette: MERIT.

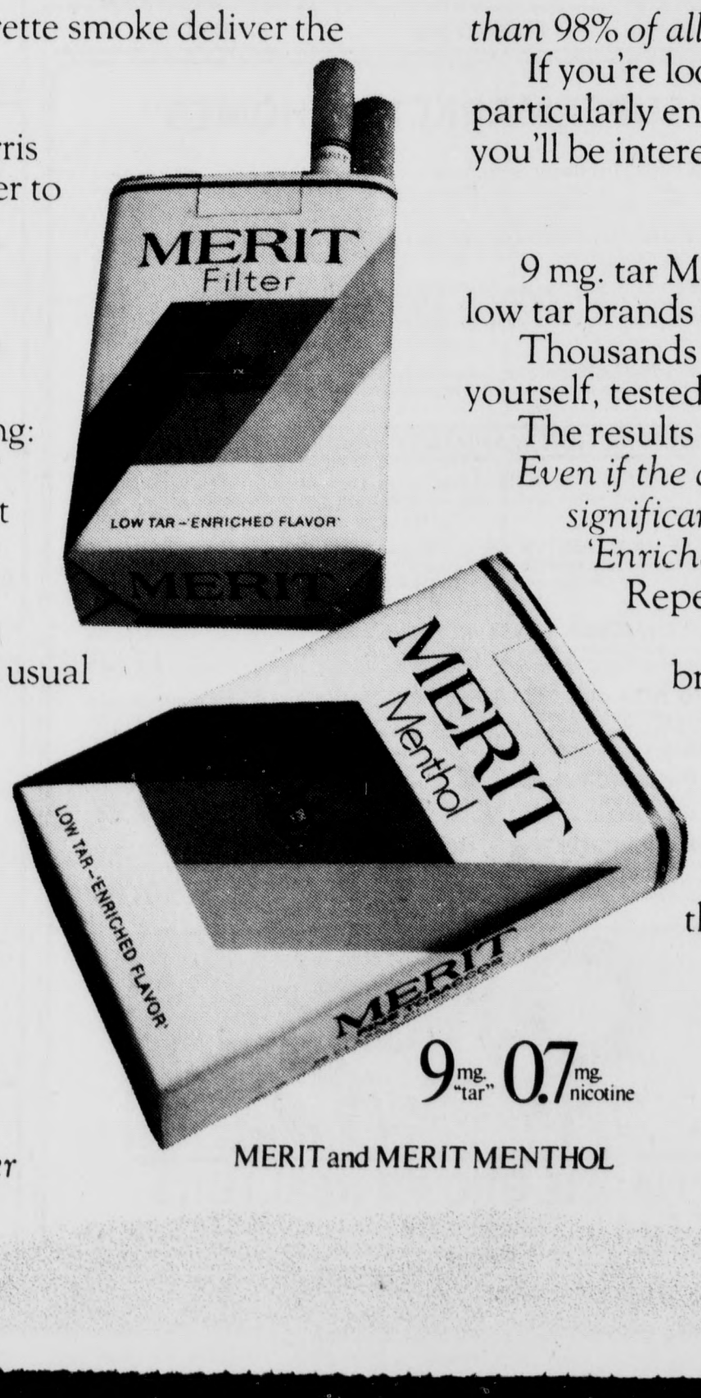

'Enriched Flavor' is extra flavor. Natural flavor. Flavor that can't burn out, can't fade out, can't do anything but come through for you.

In fact, MERIT delivers the flavor of cigarettes having more tar.

Up to 60% more tar.

Yet MERIT has only 9 mg. of tar. Lower than 98% of all cigarettes being sold today.

If you're looking to become a low tar smoker, or don't particularly enjoy the taste of the low tar brand you smoke now—you'll be interested.

9 mg. "tar" 0.7 mg. nicotine

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL

Taste-Tested By People Like You

9 mg. tar MERIT was taste-tested against five current leading low tar brands ranging from 11 mg. to 15 mg. tar.

Thousands of filter smokers were involved, smokers like yourself, tested at home.*

The results were conclusive:

Even if the cigarette tested had 60% more tar than MERIT, a significant majority of all smokers tested reported new 'Enriched Flavor' MERIT delivered more taste.

Repeat: delivered more taste.

In similar tests against 11 mg. to 15 mg. menthol brands, 9 mg. tar MERIT MENTHOL performed strongly too, delivering as much—or more— taste than the higher tar brands tested.

You've been smoking "low tar, good taste" claims long enough. Now you've got the cigarette. MERIT. Incredible smoking pleasure at one of the lowest tar levels in smoking today—only 9 mg. tar. From Philip Morris.
